开平碉楼简介

Brief Introduction to Kaipin Watch Towers

广东省第一处世界文化遗产——开平碉楼，位于广东省江门市下辖的开平市境内，是中国乡土建筑的一个特殊类型，是集防卫、居住和中西建筑艺术于一体的多层塔楼式建筑。其特色是中西合璧的民居，有古希腊、古罗马及伊斯兰等风格多种。根据现存实证，开平碉楼约产生于明代后期（16世纪）。作为近现代重要史迹及代表性建筑，被国务院批准列入第五批全国重点文物保护单位名单。

2007年6月28日，在新西兰基督城召开的第31届世界文化遗产大会上，开平碉楼与村落顺利通过表决，被正式列入《世界遗产名录》，成为中国第34处世界遗产。

The first World Heritage Site in Guangdong Province——Kaipin Watch Towers complex locating on Kaipin, Jiangmen, Guangdong, is a special type of Chinese traditional architectural complex. A Kaipin watch tower is a multi-floor tower-liked building with an organic whole function of defence, living and architectural beauty from the west and the east. The distinguishing feature of residential towers is that they reflects a combination of Chinese and Western style. The towers varies in Styles of Ancient Greek, Ancient Rome and Islamic. According to the existing evidence, Kaipin watch towers were first built in the latter part of Ming dynasty (about 16th Century), and are now enlisted the 5th key national heritage conservation site by the State Council of China as important historic and representative architecture in early modern times.

On June 28, 2007, at the 31st World Heritage Conference held in Christchurch, New Zealand, Kaiping Diaolou and its villages were successfully voted on and officially listed in the World Heritage List, becoming the 34th World Heritage Site in China.
